	Chitteri tank, Vellore. Some circumstances connected with the duel exciting suspicion, a Court-martial was held on the case, with the result that three officers were cashiered for conspiracy against Capt. Bull's life. It is noteworthy that he was gazetted as having "resigned" on the 7th of June, tho' he died on the 5th of that month. The commission was given out of the Regiment, by purchase, to Lieut. J. Young of the 8th Light Dragoons. Possibly the purchase-money was secured for the family of Captain Bull. The records of the Court-martial on this case are to be seen at Fort St. George, Madras. They give an interest to this grave which the unusually bare inscription on it does not suggest, and throw a vivid light on the history of military life in those old days.]
1806	10th July. St. John Fancourt, Lieutenant-Colonel of H. M's. 34th Regiment, aged 37 years. Commandant of Vellore, who was killed while gallantly defending the Garrison in the Mutiny of the Sepoys on the 10th July 1806

"While journeying to Madras, in the immediate hope of returning to his native country, was barbarously murdered near this place (Vellore) on the 10th July 1806." (Here follows a long eulogium, ending with the phrase—"The monument is humble but the record is true.") According to the District Manual, page 84, "Major Armstrong was passing outside the Fort, in a palanquin, when he heard the sound of fire-arms. Alighting, he advanced to the crest of the glacis, and asked what the firing meant. The answer was a volley fired by some Mutineers on the ramparts, which killed him on the spot."
	10th July. Lieut. I. M. Tichbourne of the 6th Batalion, 4th Regiment, N. I., aged 19 years, who was killed in Vellore on the 10th July 1806. (Inscription nearly illegible.)

This is a handsome stone monument in good order, with heavy iron railings round it. A statue to his memory has been erected in Saint George's Cathedral, Madras. The features of the statue are so gentle and gracious that it is plain that the wording of the inscription given below, contains no more than bare truth. The inscription runs as follows:—Sacred to the Memory of James Stephen Lushington, Esquire, of the Bengal Civil Service, who died September 12th, 1832, at the early age of 28 years. Second son of the Right Honorable S. R. Lushington, M. P., late Governor of Madras, and of Anne Elizabeth, eldest daughter of George Lord Harris. Distinguished on his first arrival in India by superior talents and acquirements, and passing with rapid success through his studies in the College of Fort William, he gave early promise of that intellectual and moral worth which is recorded with admiring friendship by the pious and accomplished Heber, and which his short but brilliant career in this Presidency developed and matured. As the Private Secretary of the Governor he acquired by his impartial courtesy the esteem of every branch of the Public Service, while his many virtues and endearing qualities secured the approbation and realized the hopes of his affectionate and bereaved father. This monument is erected by the Society which he adorned as a just tribute to his departed excellence.

	Irumattur, some 83 miles to the S. W. in the Salem District, Octavius Orlando Bridgeman, son of Major Gunning, died on the 28th December of the same year: in this monument the father is spoken of as "the late Major Gunning of the 10th Regiment, N. I.," so it is probable that it was erected long after the date it bears. If the Major Gunning referred to in both monuments is the same, it is difficult to understand how, in pre-railway days, he could have marched, with his family, 83 miles in two days.

	zealously superintending operations on the Palar Bridge near Vellore. Erected by the officers of his crops." A correspondent who was living in the District at the time states as follows :—The poor fellow, I was told, in his anxiety to have the arch completed on a certain date, and against the advice of older heads, removed the "centerings" with a thick bamboo himself, and was smashed under the damp mass of brick and mortar.
1858	28th September. Anne Mary, wife of Major Henry Green, 18th Regiment, N. I., aged 31 years and 18 days
	12th Novr. Captain Henry Douglas Hart, 39th Regt., Madras N. I., aged 35 years. "Who died at Vellore by the hand of a fanatic Sepoy assassin on the 12th November 1858." This officer was shot, while standing on the steps of the late General Ottley's Bungalow, by a Sepoy who stood on the ramparts of the Fort. The cause of the attack is not known. The Sepoy is said to have stood on the ramparts, threatening the house referred to, the inmate of which, a lady, had gone to Capt. Hart for help; he, returning with her to investigate, was shot on alighting from his carriage. A correspondent, who was living near Vellore at the time gives the following account of the occurrence :—On the night in question the Sepoy who was on guard at the Flag Staff bastion in the Fort, fired off his musket. The Jail, in those days, was in the Fort near the Flag Staff. Old Sergeant Stafford, the Jailor, hearing the report, went out to enquire, and was shot dead. The Sepoy then, by some means, foul or fair, managed to pass the sentries, and made for the officers' lines. Captain Hart happened to be the first Officer driving to the scene of mischief, and was unexpectedly met by the Sepoy near the Commissariat office, and shot in his phæton. A strong guard with other officers had by this time turned out and the Sepoy placed himself on the Mahomedan Saint's tomb situated on the South-East glacis of the Fort Here he threatened either to "do" for the rest or die, when asked to lay down his arms and surrender. The officer in charge seems to have known that the Sepoy was able to defend himself with bayonet only, and so closed on the villain with drawn sword, disarmed and made him a prisoner. When his ammunition pouches were examined, it was found that there was enough ball ammunition to have done a deal more mischief, but not a single cap. He had dropped them out of the cap pouch, which he left open, while running about. He was handed over to, and tried and sentenced by, the civil authorities, and was hanged on the plain between the Fort and the market

He died in the command of the Regiment at Arnee, in the 37th year of his age. Dec. 23rd A. D. 1798." "Lamented shade! pupil of spotless truth, First in the ranks of honor's ardent youth Thy generous soul, magnanimous in death, Stamps on our hearts who caught thy latest breath Our country's loss. But while we mourn the doom That sinks untimely Aston to the tomb The worth to which we consecrate the grave Shall waft thy spirit to the good and brave." Col. Aston is said to have been a noted duellist, and an unerring shot: mortally wounded in this, his last duel, he is said to have fired in the air, exclaiming "my last act shall not be one of revenge," and it is to this circumstance that the words "magnanimous in death" in the above inscription allude. A member of the family states that another Hervey Aston, brother of the above, distinguished himself as a duellist during the occupation of Paris—1815—when the French fire-eaters were continually picking quarrels with the officers of the allied Armies.

	Besides the above tombs, there are 132 other masonry tombs, some of them very imposing ones, all of which bear no inscriptions. In several of these the tablets have evidently been taken away. In two tombs the tablets are of wood, and the inscriptions on them are now quite illegible. The grave-yard is a very interesting one, and is situated to the west of a long line of deserted old bomb-proof barracks in the old and dismantled fort of Arni. This monument was erected by Lt.-Col. Urban Vigors, as a mark of respect for a gallant soldier." [This is an imposing masonry column, about 65 ft. high, situated in the old parade ground in the Fort. It is in good order and the inscription is quite clear. The ball on the top of the column fell off some years ago. Col. Kelly was killed in a duel in a field near Arni by Lt.-Col. Vigors. Tradition has it that, on Colonel Kelly's appointment to Command, Colonel Vigors spoke of him as an "old woman" to his wife, who repeated the remark to Mrs Kelly, who insisted upon Colonel Kelly obtaining 'satisfaction,' with the above result. The story has been so handed down, and, in those days, it was nothing extraordinary that life should be lost for such a trifle.]

	WANDIWASH.
	This Fort, immortalised by the unflinching valour of the illustrious, but neglected, Flint, contains the graves of many brave Officers and men. The only tomb now traceable is a modest masonry construction, on the southern glacis of the Fort, east of the road leading to the Gateway. Its tenant has not been identified. It would be well if it were protected by an iron railing. The nearest conjecture is that it shelters the remains of Major Brereton, mentioned below. There were, until some few years back, two small masonry tombs of European Officers, lying close beside each other in a field, inside the Fort, to the right hand side after entering the Gateway. They were, roughly speaking, about 80 yards north of the southern, and 50 yards west of the eastern rampart. Unfortunately, the site was ploughed over in recent years, a Vandalism which did not occur in or after November 1887. Although diligent search was made in and near the spot indicated, no trace of these graves could be found, so well had the destroyer done his work.
	According to the veracious Orme, Lieutenants Minns and Latour were killed, in an unsuccessful attack on the Fort by the British, in 1759. On this occasion 70 rank and file also perished. Lieutenant Mainville and two Captains were killed in September 1759. The Fort was captured by the British in November 1759, and, on this occasion, Lieutenant Campbell of the Artillery perished. Major Brereton fell in an unsuccessful attack made on the Fort, by the French, in January 1760. He was killed close to a retrenchment near a tank. On the same occasion three French Officers were killed. The Chevalier Poete is specially mentioned as having fallen in January 1760.

1830	A large octagonal Mausoleum, with an iron door, contains two tombs. Tradition has it that these are the graves of the first and second wives of a Mr. Waters, Judge at Chittoor. The door being secured by three heavy locks, it is not possible to see if the graves bear inscriptions. Local Tradition amongst the natives has it that much valuable jewellery was buried with these ladies, and that more than one attempt was made to rifle their tombs. Mr. W. T. Waters was additional Judge of the Provincial Court—Chittoor—from 10th March 1829 to 31st March 1830, and acting Judge from 1st April to 5th October 1830. The Mausoleum, therefore, probably dates from 1830

For thee, O now a silent soul, my brother,
Take at my hands this garland, and farewell.
Thin is the leaf, and chill the wintry smell,
And chill the solemn earth, a fatal mother,
With sadder than the Niobean womb,
And in the hollow of her breasts a tomb.
Content thee, howsoe'er whose days are done;
There lies not any troublous thing before,
Nor sight nor sound to war against thee more,
For whom all winds are quiet as the sun,
All waters as the shore.
